POSTPONEMENT!

We are requested to state that at a very general request of those most interested, the Rail Road meeting adjourned to meet this evening, has been postponed for one week.

Burning of the Henry Clay.

A few minutes after the boat struck the bank, when assistance from all in reach was required, a boat was rowed from a sloop in the river, by two fiends in the shape of men, who had no sooner reached the wreck than, instead of saving fellow beings, they commenced plundering and stealing the valuables of the passengers, then struggling for life. The gardner and coachman of Mr. Russell Smith, happened to be near the shore, witnessed the outrage, and managed to get on board the boat. On gaining her they threw the heartless scoundrels from the boat, and taking possession of her, succeeded in rescuing a considerable number of the distressed passengers.

The Henry Clay was a beautiful boat. She was almost new, having been built about two years ago. She was valued at $50,000, and was owned by D. Collyer and Wm. Radford, and so far as we can learn was fully insured.

A meeting is called of the passengers who were on board at the time of the disaster, to be held at the Astor House N. York.

All along the river for a mile or two might be seen hats, shawls, fragments of dresses, bundles, &c., and now and then a human body washed ashore.

Twenty-two bodies have been discovered—a few of whom had been recognized by their friends. The coroner summoned a jury and proceeded to take testimony in the case, but little progress was made.

☞ In Waldoboro', one day last week, a Mr. Wm. Benner, trader, committed suicide in a novel way. Early in the morning he repaired to his store and sat down on his counter immediately over an open keg of gunpowder. Into this he threw a bunch of lighted matches, and the instant result was an explosion which shattered the building to atoms. Mr. Benner was taken from the ruins shockingly burnt and mutilated, and lived only about four hours. At first he said he knew nothing of the affair, but before his death, confessed that he did intend to kill himself.

☞ General Scott's wound in the shoulder, received at Lundy's Lane, has prevented him from using his left arm in dressing since it was received. The British lead is still there. The General was also previously wounded in the side in the same battle, and had two horses killed under him, but he did not faint or leave the field.

☞ The brig Catharine Rogers, in Boston on Wednesday night, was boarded by thieves, who entered the cabin and stole a gold watch, chain and money—all of the value of $139, the property of Joseph Burke of Litchfield, Maine.

☞ The locomotive of the first section of the St. Andrews and Quebec Railway, was put in motion on Friday last. This was the first locomotive ever set in motion in that Province, and of course attracted much attention.

Gov. Tompkins and Gen. Scott.

On the 25th of November, 1815, Hon Daniel D. Tompkins, then Governor of New York, conceiving that no fitter occasion than the anniversary of the Evacuation of New York could be found for the purpose, made to Gen. Scott an official presentation of the sword which the Legislature of the State had voted him as a testimonial of a popular admiration for his recent brilliant and heroic achievements on the Northern Frontier. The address of the Governor to the gallant General was replied with an ardor and generous appreciation of the great deeds and manly qualities, and cannot be read by the patriotic citizen of the Republic even at this day without a thrill of satisfaction. It is as follows:

"Sir,—I avail myself of an anniversary commemoration of the exploits of our forefathers, to perform the pleasing duty of proclaiming the gratitude of the people of this State to those descendants of the heroes of the Revolution, whose services in the late war have contributed so mainly to perpetuate the independence which our venerated ancestors achieved, and to advance the glory of the American nation.

"In adverting, sir, to your claims of distinction, it would be sufficient to say, that, on all occasions, you have displayed the highest military accomplishments, the most ardent attachment to the rights and honor of your country, and the most intrepid exertions in their support. A rapid and unprecedented succession of promotions at an early age has been the well-earned fruit of your talents. The distinguished notice, by your Government in the best conviction, of your character, and the highest reward to which the virtuous and the great aspire.

"But, sir, your military career is replete with splendid events. Without descending to too much minuteness, I may briefly refer to your exploits in the most interesting portion of the American Continent. The shores of Niagara, from Erie to Ontario, are inscribed with your name, and with the names of your brave companions. The defeat of the enemy at Fort George will not be forgotten. The memorable conflict on the plains of Chippewa, and the appalling night-battle on the heights of Niagara, are events which have added new celebrity to the spot where they happened, lightening the majesty of the stupendous cataract by combining with its natural, all the force of the moral nature. The admirers of the great in nature, from all quarters in the globe will forever visit the theater of your achievements. They will bear to their distant homes the idea of the mighty display of nature, and will associate with it the deeds of you and your brothers in arms. And so long as the beautiful and sublime shall be objects of admiration among men—so long as the whitening waters of Niagara—so long as the thundering falls shall be tumbled into the awful depths of Niagara—so long shall the splendid actions in which you have had so conspicuous a share, endure in the memory of man.

"Accept, sir, the sword presented to you by the people of this State, as a pledge of their affection and gratitude for your distinguished services; and may the remainder of your life be as serene and happy as your early days have been useful and glorious."

To this Gen. Scott briefly and appropriately replied, to the effect that he regarded the acceptance of the sword as the assumption of a new obligation on his part to support and defend the national honor and independence, and that could he feel himself more worthy of the distinction conferred upon him, the sole wish left for him at that moment would be that the glory and the liberties of the Republic might be eternal.

It is against this patriotic hero that unscrupulous calumny and falsehood are now relentlessly employed! But in November the American electors will nobly justify themselves, and avenge the wrongs suffered by their long-tried and faithful servant.

Church Bells.

To the Editor of the Whig & Courier.

I have often thought how tame and silent it would be for the people of this, or any Christian community if they were to have no bells upon their churches to call them by their silver tones to the House of Prayer, or toll the solemn knell of departed mortality. But how much more pleasant and agreeable it would be to the ears of every man, woman and child, to listen to the sweet and delightful sounds of a good set of musical bells. It would be a novelty and a very gratifying one I have no doubt to every person in this city, to have a set of chime bells, procured and placed in the belfry of some one of our numerous churches. And observing that the Union Street Society are now erecting a very large and substantial church edifice, in the place of the one they lost by fire in November last, and as I understand, intend to have it adorned by a finely proportioned Tower and Spire some one hundred and sixty or seventy feet in height, the thought occurred to me that it would be a very suitable place for putting up a set of chimes. It is said that the society intend to purchase a large and good toned bell the cost of which will be some five or six hundred dollars, and as it is understood that a good set of chime bells can be had for about twenty five hundred dollars, it seems there would be required beside the appropriation of the society, about two thousand dollars. Now I have little doubt that if some person would take the trouble to pass around a subscription paper among our citizens generally, that the amount required could be raised in a very short time, and I hope some one will feel interest enough in the matter to make the attempt without delay.

July 28, 1852. BELFRY.

☞ Quite an interest has been excited in our city, by the presence of a citizen of China, Mr. Ah Shove, who shows up the entire costume of the Flowery nation with much grace. He makes his visits at Dr. Sargent's popular Drug Store, where he has various products of the growth and manufacture of his country to exhibit to our people.

☞ President Wood, of Bowdoin College, has invited General Pierce, a graduate, to attend the Commencement of the 1st Wednesday of September, and the latter replies that he shall probably be there.

☞ The Hallowell Gazette mentions the fact of a piece of lead pipe, which had been laid down for several years, and which, on being recently taken up was found to be nearly half filled inside, with pure white lead, produced by the action of the water upon the metal.

☞ The Hartford Courant says that all the members of Gen. Taylor's Cabinet support Scott and Graham, except Crawford of Georgia. He goes for Pierce and King. We shall hear no more about the Dolphin claim from the locos.

Can Sailors be Reformed?

To the Editor of the Whig and Courier.

Judging from the indifference of the public generally, and the efforts made out of the State for the reformation of sailors, one would naturally conclude that sailors cannot be reformed. Here is a State furnishing to the naval and commercial service thirty thousand sea-faring men, and yet doing almost nothing to protect them against the arts and seductions of an army of men by which they are pursued thro' every street and alley of our larger sea-ports and robbed sometimes with loss of life.

Our newspapers are frequently recording instances of revolt and mutiny, and business men engaged in the shipping interest, are loud in their complaints of the faithlessness of deserting sailors, so there can be no mistake as to the fact that there is a large body of abandoned and reckless sailors. Now comes up a serious question for business men, philanthropists and christians to consider. Maine is the last State in the Union to do without sailors—we must have them. Some sea-captains assert that sailors are growing worse, and it is undoubtedly true that bad men are less controllable since the abolition of corporal punishment. And if things are really growing worse, where will it end. It will be dangerous business to go to sea, and moreover, who will dare to entrust his property to a crew of lawless men, who may rise and take the vessel and appropriate it and the cargo to their own use. This has been done, and if sailors are allowed to grow worse, it will be done more frequently.

The question to be considered is, what is to render the ceaseless continuance of the present deplorable state of things, and prevent its becoming worse. Men constantly surrounded with temptations and evil, and urged on by the hireling of landlords who enrich themselves out of the vice of sailors, will not reform themselves. It is contrary to common sense to suppose they will. Once started on the downward track of intemperance and lowdness, it requires a strong, counteracting force to stop them and the great difficulty of taking them back up the ascending grade will not be understood without taking into account the fact, that everybody connected with this "Sailors Road to Ruin," receives large sums of money from the passenger, the conductor, the engineer, the firemen and the fro-women, with a host of hangers-on around the refreshment shops that are so plenty along the road.

Sailors are made of the same stuff that landsmen are. They are as susceptible of good impressions as any other class of men; and that they are by thousands abandoned men may be attributed to the neglect of land-men in not attending to their moral and spiritual wants.—They are strangers in most places they go to and instead of being met by real friends, they are met with open arms by their most deadly enemies. It is plain to be seen that the sailor has not a fair chance of being a moral man, if he is disposed to be. If any class of men was followed upon the same way, the result would be the same.

Will not our citizens be aroused to do something thro' Bethel organization, and Sailors Homes and protect the homeless sailors. L. S.

CONGRESS.

WASHINGTON, July 28.

In the Senate.—Mr Hamlin offered a resolution that the Senate proceedings on the death of Henry Clay be bound with other documents. Agreed to.

Mr Felch reported the House bill granting the right of way through the public lands to all railroads, plank roads, Turnpikes, &c. The bill was taken up and passed.

The bill from the House establishing additional Land Districts in Wisconsin was taken up, and after a slight discussion passed.

Mr Davis introduced a joint resolution explanatory of the Census Act, respecting the salary of the Superintendent of the Census. The bill was then taken up and ordered to be engrossed.

Mr Sumner moved to take up the resolution offered by him, directing inquiry as to the expediency of reporting a bill for the repeal of the fugitive slave law.

Mr Sumner said—In asking the Senate to take up this resolution for consideration, I say nothing of its merits, nor the arguments by which it may be maintained. Nor do I anticipate any objection to it on these grounds. All this will properly belong to the discussion when the resolution is before the Senate. The single question now is not on the resolution but whether I shall be heard on it. As a Senator, under the responsibilities of my position, I have deemed it my duty to offer the resolution. I may seem to have postponed the duty to an inconvenient period of the session; but had I attempted it at an earlier day I might have exposed myself to a charge of a different character.

To-night have been said that a new comer, and inexperienced in the scene, without deliberation, hastily, rashly, recklessly, I pushed this question before the country. This is not the case now. I have taken time, and in all the exercise of my most careful discretion, now I ask for it the attention of the Senate. I shrink from any appeal, founded in a trivial or personal consideration, that should I be blamed for any delay latterly. I may add that though in my seat daily, my bodily health for some time past, even to this very week, has not been equal to the service I have undertaken. I am not sure that it is now, but I desire to try, and now again say the question is, simply, whether I shall be heard.

In allowing me this privilege, I might say you do not commit yourselves in any way to the principle of the resolution, but you merely follow the ordinary usage of the Senate, and yield to a brother Senator the opportunity which he craves, in the practical discharge of his duty to express, convictions dear to his heart, and dear to a large number of his constituents. For my own sake I now desire to be heard. Make such disposition of my resolution afterwards as to you shall seem best. You upon me any degree of criticism, censure, or displeasure, but do not deprive me of a hearing. Strike, but hear!

Mr Mason objected to the consideration of the question at this time, not from any want of courtesy to the Senator, nor from any want of disposition to meet this question at a proper time; but it must be manifest, at this late period of the session, that no proper discussion of it could be had beyond the remarks which the Senator might make, and any discussion of it at this time would be a fire-brand in the Senate.

Mr Brooks said his State occupied a peculiar position on this subject. The people of Mississippi had in the most formal and emphatic manner declared a repeal or essential modification of the fugitive slave law, would afford sufficient ground for the dissolution of the Union. This was no idle threat, but a solemn declaration, which will be carried into execution, with the approval of the whole South. He regarded the present proposition, therefore, as one to dissolve the Union, and he could not consent, contrary or no scatter, to entertain it at this stage of the session. The South would regard the repeal of that law as an act of bad faith, or one showing that no faith was to be put in the North—that a Union with such a people was worse than no Union.

Mr Charlton was sorry to differ again from the Senator from Massachusetts, on a question of courtesy. The resolution presents a proposition to rend this Union in pieces. He was pledged that in case this law was repealed it would withdraw from the Union, and all her citizens would stand by that pledge. The tables of both Houses were now covered with bills necessary to be acted on to carry on the machinery of Government. Let the Senator look beyond his own coast, and he will see the American flag, not perhaps trailing in the dust, but at half mast, and American vessels and crews under the guard of British vessels.

We of the South are here prepared to a man to stand by our brethren of the North, and maintain them, come what may, in their rights. The South are well aware of what its coasts would suffer from a war, but they thought not of that when the rights of any portion of the American people were in jeopardy. He defended his position as a Union Democrat, and avowed his determination to preserve the Constitution. If this law be abolished, then he would say, "My native land, good night." Argument would be exhausted, and the South must rest on her arms.

Mr Shields said he would vote against the resolution when it came up. He thought it presented an abstract question, and was sorry that the time of the Senate, at this late day, should be taken up in its consideration; but the immediate question was whether the Senator should be heard. He was for hearing the Senator. We should hear any Senator, on any subject. He would vote against any proposition to repeal or amend the fugitive slave law, except to make it stronger; but he would like to hear the Senator make an expose of the position to be assumed by this third party in the coming election. He suggested that the subject be postponed to Saturday. He had no fears that any speech made by the Senator would ever dissolve the Union.

Mr Gwin asked whether the Senator would hear another on a proposition to dissolve the Union.

Mr Shields said he would not listen to any flagrant avowed treason.

Mr Gwin considered there was no difference between this proposition and one to dissolve the Union. This was to, repeal a law, and many States have declared that its repeal would be sufficient cause for dissolution, and they would withdraw from the Union.

Mr Douglas said he came to the Senate this morning expecting to be heard on the bill for the protection of emigrant routes to California and Oregon—a question which he thought the people of the United States considered of far more importance than speeches on the repeal of the fugitive slave law. He wanted to hear no premeditated speeches in the Senate. They could be made elsewhere. He would vote against taking the resolution up.

Mr Butler said that he had long since determined to make no further opposition to agitation by refusing petitions or to hear speeches. He would vote now to allow the Senator to speak. If there was any time for reply, a fair field and a clear sky was all he asked on this or any other question. The Senator could not make this speech without calling forth others in reply, and there was not time enough of the session left for any such discussion, and he supposed the Senator did not desire to speak for a mere oratorical display, but that his proposition had the dignity of purpose. The speech was intended to have an effect and would have one, and therefore ought not to be allowed to go out without a reply to it.

Mr Borland said he had opposed the Compromise acts, but from the date of their passage he had, as in duty bound, acquiesced in them for peace and quietness sake. He was opposed to agitating this subject now.

Mr Hunter said that the whole day would be taken up in the preliminary debate. He hoped the Senate would decide whether the resolution should be considered or not.

The question was taken, and the Senate refused to consider the resolution.

A message was received from the President, communicating correspondence, &c., concerning the right of way over Tehuantepec. Not read but referred. (Your reporter could not obtain a sight of.)

The Indian Appropriation Bill was taken up, and the Committee on Finance reported an amendment to strike out the appropriation of $110,000 for services of friendly Creeks during the war of 1812.

Mr Hunter supported the motion to strike out. Messrs. Bell, Charlton and Borland opposed the motion to strike out. It was rejected and the Senate adjourned.

In the House. After the usual opening business, the House took up the motion to reconsider the vote laying upon the table the bill granting land to the State of Michigan for the construction of the Oakland and Ottawa Railroad.

After a call of the House, the yeas and nays were taken upon the motion to reconsider, and it was carried by yeas 76, nays 74. The further consideration of the subject was then postponed until to-morrow.

On motion, the House went into Committee of the Whole, and resumed the consideration of the River and Harbor bill.

Mr Clingman offered an amendment appropriating $85,000 for the improvement of the Mississippi and its tributaries; rejected—69 to 85.

Mr Cuskie offered one appropriating $45,000 for the improvement of the James and Appomattox rivers. Other amendments were offered by members, some seriously and some in ridicule. Among the latter was one by Mr Carter, of Ohio, appropriating $5000 for the improvement of Salt river, to be expended by the Secretary of the Treasury, prior to the 4th of March next. This led to a humorous debate, but it was voted down, receiving 20 votes. Other amendments were also lost, and the House adjourned.

☞ A sterling old Democrat stated recently to us that in looking over the loco papers and finding that they were trying to make it appear that Gen. Scott is not a brave man, he was reminded of the fact that in the war none but those known as "stinking Federalists," undertook to belittle and abuse the heroes of the army. The cap mark of those times is easily recognized now.

☞ The Government of New Brunswick have appropriated £1000 for the relief of the sufferers by the late fire at Montreal, trusting to the Legislature to confirm the grant.

☞ Mr. Botts made a splendid speech on Friday before last, at Richmond, Va. The meeting was very large. The Whig says that the young men are going for Scott with a perfect rush.

LATER FROM CALIFORNIA.

The Prometheus has arrived at New York with $250,000 in gold, and 124 passengers. Business at San Francisco good. The miners are doing well. The news is scanty. The Chinese are arriving in great numbers.

☞ Fifty-two dead bodies have been recovered from the Henry Clay, and it is now supposed that an hundred persons must have perished.

☞ The principles of the new French Constitution, as "Punch" hasit, are "universal suffering and vote by bullet."

The St. John, N. B., Morning Times of the 28th, says:

"In this city, on Saturday last, a Court of Vice Admiralty was held, for the hearing of the cases of the American Fishing schooner Coral, of Machias, and the schooner Hyades, of Lubec, seized by the Cutter Netley for violation of the fishery treaty between England and the United States.—No defence was made by the owners. Judgement on the cases was not given, and the Court adjourned until to-day, when of course the vessels will be condemned."

Lesage's Specific,

NEVER failing remedy for thoroughly, eradicating diseases of the Urinary Organs, such as Gonorrhœa, Gleets, Whites, Strictures, Stone in the Bladder, &c., and needs but to be once used to be universally esteemed. The proprietor would respectfully caution those troubled with the above annoying complaints, to beware of those eruel-every-thing, which unprincipled individuals, without the slightest knowledge of the structure of the human system, recommend for every disease. Lesage's Specific is only intended for the cure of Private Diseases, and the thousands that have sent their unsolicited certificates vouch, or its efficacy, while its butter it is known the greater is its demand for it. How different from the various quack medicines which, when the unhappy patient has once used, no inducement can ever make try again.—Lesage's Specific has been the remedy, depended on by every class, the senator, the lawyer, the mechanic, the seaman, and the dashing expelled have found and found it truly the good Samaritan in the hour of trouble.

Dr. Darby annexes extracts, from some of his certificates:

Bigelow's Alterative.

A CERTAIN cure for DYSENTERY, Diarrhœa, CHOLERA MORBUS, and all Summer Complaints. GEORGE W. BRIGGS, Proprietor, 28 Broadway, New York.

For children, who are Teething, and Cholic fantum, this medicine stands unrivalled. It can be used with perfect safety both by old and young, and when faithfully administered it has never been known in any case to fail of a speedy cure. Unlike other medicines, it corrects the bowels, and often in a few hours the patient is restored to his accustomed vigor and health.

We append the following testimonials:

I have used "Bigelow's Alterative" extensively, and have never found it to fail. In short it has rendered the administered by and under direction of physicians have proved ineffectual. I think it a perfect corrective for Dysentery and in fact every complaint.

GEO W. BRIGGS, 67 Washington st.

New York, March 22d, 1852.

We can add our testimony to that of others in our own case, when prostrated by an alarming disease by Bowel Disease. It was only medicine that gave relief, and one new was kept in the family.

Editor of the N. Y. Baptist Register.

Utica, April 28th, 1852.

"Bigelow's Alterative," advertised in another column of our paper, is, probably, the best cure for Dysentery, Diarrhœa, &c., &c., for which it is supported. We seldom make a point to tell patent medicines, and for the very good reason that most of them are entirely undeserving of praise; but we have it on such infallible and respectable authority, that [illegible] Alterative is all, and more than all, it professes to be, that we cannot do less than make mention of it in this way to our readers. All that we have mentioned is on such matters as "Certificates" embodied in the advertisement, which, judging from the high standing of the persons who are said to have used, promptly and [illegible] effectually, we feel safe in saying, whether a remedy or not, is worthy of attention or otherwise. We have more to say at this remarkable preparation.

Bangor Air-Tight COOKING STOVE

THE best Cook Stove ever introduced to this or any other people.

Having secured the sole agency of this very desirable Stove, I take great pleasure in offering it to my customers and the public. This Stove was invented expressly for this eastern market, by those experienced and expert Stove manufacturers' Messrs. Estes & Whittier, who know, and have appreciated the wants of this enlightened people. It is now offered to the public with the fullest confidence in its merits, and its superiority over every other Cooking apparatus ever introduced. Its conveniences for Boiling, Broiling, Frying, &c., are not surpassed; and its extensive and beautiful Oven for Baking and Roasting, will at once recommend itself to the Ladies. One very important feature is, it has very stout and smooth castings, and being manufactured in this city, can at all times be repaired, if ever necessary, at a trifling expense without subjecting one to wait for castings to be ordered from New York, Rhode Island, or elsewhere. Every Stove warranted one year, and one not giving entire satisfaction may be returned and the money will be refunded after 30 days trial.

—ALSO—

A great variety of other patterns of cooking Stoves, such as the

Our State, Bay State, Empire State, Granite State, State of Maine, &c.

All or any of which will be sold at extremely low prices.

Elevated Oven Stoves—Hampden 3 and 4 Boiler and two Oven—Boston two oven Stoves, Forrest Queen, &c., and that very beautiful pattern of Cottage Parlor Cook Stove, and in fact every variety of Stove for Cooking or warming, worthy of notice, can be found at the Central Street Stove and Furnace Depot, No 16, 17 and 19

CARRIAGES!

Patronise Home Manufactures.

WE are manufacturing Light Carriages of every description, which we are prepared to warrant equal to any in the market, without any exception. We have purchased the right to use a recent attachment, for Four Wheeled Carriages, whereby Carriages can be made to turn in a very small compass, describing a circle of 6 feet, also avoiding the grating noise occasioned in turning (which is desirable) as the wheels do not come in contact with the body. We wish it understood that we hold ourselves responsible for the failure of our work in consequence of the use of poor stock or work.

We also manufacture Elliptic and Side Springs of a superior quality.

Jobbing in every branch promptly attended to at fair prices.

WE have on hand a few Light Chaises, Phaetons, and Concord style Wagons equal to the genuine article. Also, Light Buggy Wagons, all of our own make, which we shall sell low for cash or approved credit.

25,000 Sold per Year!

The Unsurpassed and Unsurpassable

Bay State Stove,

OF SIX SIZES, of heavy and smooth castings—price from $15 to $50—celebrated for its whole cooking apparatus, carrying off the smoke in broiling, and not to be exceeded in baking, frying, boiling, &c. &c., or in durability and economy—may be had, as heretofore, at the well-known and long established

Stove, Furnace and Range DEPOT,

Nos. 80 & 82 MAIN STREET, and 2 and 4 WALL STREET, OF

N. JOHNSON,

Who is SOLE Agent, and always has been, for this market, for the sale of the celebrated Stove above named, of which 25,000 were sold the past year, and of which some 30,000 will not be more than sufficient to supply the demand the present year.

The BAY STATE is sold and warranted as usual. Returned after an unsatisfactory trial of 30 days, the price paid will be refunded, together with interest and cost of returning.

Persons purchasing the BAY STATE, and desiring repairs, are not subjected to the trouble of sending to Rhode Island or New York for castings, nor to wait in Bangor for them, AS I HAVE THEM ON HAND!

A CHALLENGE OF $50

is proposed, that 50 Stoves of six sizes, of any other pattern than the BAY STATE, (for which I am sole Agent,) cannot be produced which will compare with the 50 I now have on hand, in thickness and smoothness of castings, or in facility and capacity of broiling, baking, boiling, or other cooking requisite.

☞ The public are specially requested not to mistake a Stove called the "IMPROVED" BAY STATE, which is cheaper and inferior article, of thinner and less durable castings, and which is sometimes advertised without the word 'Improved' as a prefix, for the original and genuine BAY STATE, which has been so generally and thoroughly tested and admired.

All other kinds of STOVES constantly on hand, as above, which will be sold at reduced prices.
